One Firm, Many Paths to Success

As one of the first major law firms to institute a Firm-wide diversity policy and training program, Weil has been an innovator in bringing inclusion to the legal profession, and the effort continues today.

We are among the industry’s leaders, creating affinity groups for underrepresented groups, including lawyers of diverse backgrounds in Firm leadership, and helping practice leaders and mentors understand how diversity impacts associate development and retention and strengthens client relations.

Our pro bono commitment runs broad and deep, touching upon human and civil rights, discrimination, political asylum, economic and community development, housing rights, wrongful convictions, and veterans’ rights.
